

Jill Stein
OCM Senior Consultant

Jill brings nearly two decades of change management and DEI consulting experience. Her expertise lies in driving impactful transformations, particularly in the areas of employee engagement and large-scale organizational change. She has led large-scale transformation efforts for private and public sector clients. Her areas of focus include human-centered design, communication strategy, and data analysis. Prior to consulting, she concentrated the first part of her career on academic research and public sector service for families and young children. She brings a unique blend of research-driven insights and hands-on public sector experience, as well as a deep commitment to fostering inclusive spaces for all.

Outside of work, Jill loves to travel, go to the theater, read novels, try out new recipes, and spend as much time outside as the Chicago weather allows.
